DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Claims 1-9 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on July 2, 2004.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over either one of Hathaway et al (6,474,132 B1 or 6,581458 B1) The nutating disk is readable on element 39 and the chamber for housing the nutating disk is readable on element 12. Elements 5 and 11 are readable on the cover. Note that the flow meter of Hathaway et al can be utilized with different types of fluids, that including a fuel that is dispensed. In elements.

the alternative, it is apparent to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made to replace the nutating disk 39, if desired. This can be easily achieved by the readily available access to assembling the above flow meter elements together as a unit. To repair the nutating device would be the reverse of assembling the flow meter elements, i.e. disassembling the above flow meter

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either one of Kullmann, Bystricky, Rittenhouse, Williams et al or Swinson et al. Note that intended use is afforded no patentable weight. It is well known in the art to dispense many types of fluids through a flow meter. The fluid can be other than fuel. In the patent to Bystricky, the chamber is readable on element 44 that houses nutating device 38 and 42. Elements 46, 48 and 50 are readable on the cover. Also, in the patent to Kullmann, the interior of element 12 that houses nutating disk elements 14 and 20 is readable on the chamber. Element 88 is readable on the cover. The cover is readable on elements 9 and 11 of Rittenhouse. The interior of element 3 is readable on the chamber for housing or enclosing the nutating device 13-19. The patent to Williams et al teaches a cover 12 and an interior chamber 14 for housing a nutating device 76. In the patent to Swinson et al, the chamber is readable on element 86 that houses nutating device 70 and 76-79. The cover is readable on elements 14, 16 and 94. To one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, it would be obvious to disassemble the flow meter elements in either patent to replace or repair either nutating device in the reverse order of assembling the flow meter elements together as a unit. The repairing is achievable because of the accessibility of the flow meter elements to be assembled or disassembled.
